TAXATION, A NATION WRECKER.

How is it that so many nations have been bankrupted by their governments? This question is not very difficult, in view of the war loans now found necessary by the nations of Europe. On the same day that Mr. Asquith calls for an additional credit of $1,500,000,000, the German government orders out another $2,850,000,000 for the prosecution of the war. British credits—that is to say, British borrowings—now total 15,660,000,000 for war thus far. The demand for more gold by Germany has led to an order to cast into the melting pot the jewelry and trinkets handed down for generations.—Galveston News.

Nations go broke not alone by big war credits, but also by a system of burdensome taxation that consumes the people, body and soul. The government of the United States is traveling that road now as fast as the clatter wheels of destruction can carry it and the state of Texas is running her neck and neck. Multiplied thousands of needless offices, needless commissions, tax-eaters, salary grabbers, camp followers and hangers-on, are sucking the very life blood of the republic. Taxation is the rock upon which our ship of state is drifting and which will surely wreck it unless the wheel is given a turn and we sail on a different tack.

UP TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS.

Walker county has broken the world's record for peanut growing. The Houston Post says previous to this year Arkansas held the credit with 122 bushels per acre, but in the contest held at Huntsville, Elbert Walker won first prize with a yield of 242 bushels per acre. He used no fertilizer. Vernon Beverly of Walker county produced 60 bushels of corn to the acre. These Texas boys are winners when it comes to growing corn and peanuts, and they will attend the Dallas fair for a week as guests of the fair association.—Fort Worth Record.

On these boys depends the agricultural future of Texas. Their daddies are "set in their ways," and though their sons perform these seeming miracles right under their very eyes, they go on in the old ruts and are satisfied with the scanty yields that have kept the farmers of Texas poor ever since the war. When these boys of the corn clubs and the girls of the canning clubs take the reins in the management of the farms of the country, a new era will dawn and a new prosperity will bless the people.

WRONG AGAIN, GOVERNOR.

"The controversy between me and the board of regents of the University of Texas has resolved itself to one point," said Governor James E. Ferguson in an interview Saturday morning at Dallas. "That point has this question of debate: Shall the governor of the state and the legislature, elected by the people of the state as their servants and agents, have a voice in the expenditure of state funds or shall the regents of the university become a law unto themselves and answerable to no one but themselves?"

We do not see what the governor and the legislature have to do with the workings of the university. It is their province to give or to withhold, but having once given, the disposition of the funds is clearly with the board of regents and not with the governor and the legislature.

The position taken by Mr. Ferguson would, it seems to us, make of the board of regents a sort of body waiting on the political authority, and the university might easily become a doormat for the politicians.

We are under the painful necessity of disagreeing with Governor Ferguson in his treatment of some of the other educational institutions of the state; we find him again in the wrong, as we view the matter.—Waco Times-Herald.

The press of Texas, as well as the job printers of the state, have a common sorrow in the death of T. A. Andrews, manager of the Southwestern Paper Company of Houston. Mr. Andrews was a splendid gentleman and citizen, and his fair and courteous methods in business made friends for him of all the printing fraternity of Texas.

Gov. James E. Ferguson is now suing his yoke-mate, the Hon. Charles H. Morris, for $50,000 damages growing out of the late primary. The governor seems to have conceived the idea that he can recoup his political investments by the damage suit route before his last term as governor expires, and that he can retire, not only full of honors, but with a plethoric purse, even as it was when he entered the political arena.

Sure we like to see the farm boys get sky high prices for their hogs; our only twinges of regret being in the cut we know is sure to come in the editorial appropriation of spare ribs, back bone and good old country sausage.

Again the Eagle reminds the tenant farmers that now is the time to acquire a home. Lands are cheaper now than they will ever be again.

That three weeks is out, but the big asphalt plant of the Kaw Paving Company has not come back to its place over by the H. & T. C. station.

RUSSIAN SALAD.

It is easy.
There's no rule.
One may use anything.
Roast beef and anchovies, say.
Or again, ham, tongue, mushrooms and anchovies.

Beef or lamb may be added if one has them.

At any rate these cooked ingredients are chopped.

Then they are put on lettuce leaves and served with French dressing or sauce tartare.

Russian salad, it need not be added, is a luncheon or supper salad—not a dinner salad.

HYMENEAL.

At the First Baptist church of Houston last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Margaret Rhodes of Bryan and Mr. F. W. Underwood of Honey Grove were married. The wedding was witnessed by only a few relatives and close friends.

It is not our pleasure to know the bride, but from others the information comes to us that she is a member of one of the state's best families, and a woman of culture and attractive personality. Mr. Underwood is a leader in the business circles of this county and is easily one of the most popular men within the circle of our acquaintance. He is a man of wonderful business acumen and has made a great success in the business world, while his genial, affable qualities have won for him the warm friendship of every acquaintance.

Mr. and Mrs. Underwood are now touring the East. No date has been set for their return, but they will probably arrive in Honey Grove to make their home within ten days.—Honey Grove Signal.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"Can you direct me (hic) th'other shide?" "Over there, of course." "Jusht been over there (hic) an' they tol' me it was over here."—Boston Transcript.

"The pen is miltier than the sword!" remarked the earnest citizen. "That used to be the case," replied Mr. Chuggins, as he wiped his hands on his nap pockets; "but what counts now is a monkey-wrench or a pair of pliers."—Washington Star.

"Simple simon went a-fishing in his mother's pail." "Not so simple as that," declared the amateur sportsman. "I've spent time and money getting to a place where the likelihood of catching fish was no whit greater."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Did you cure that patient you had with the falling memory?" "I thought so at one time," replied the doctor, "but I'm not so sure about it now. He went away and forgot to pay his bill."—Judge.

CIRCUS HAS TWO BIG ATTRACTIONS

World's Champion Prize Fighter and the Hercules of the Wrestling World, With Floto Shows.

Circus performers who are able to do something different from what the public is accustomed to, and engender talk, are not close together. The Sells-Floto circus, which will be here on November 7, by reason of their commanding position in the circus world, are brought in contact with the genuinely unique and superior, with the result that the "Champion Shows of the World" is a compendium of the choicest and most exclusive feats and features known to the aggressive circus world.

There are numerous numbers in the ring program, and most of the performers interpreting these acts are appearing now in this country for the first time. Everything new and impressive in the art of riding, balancing, tumbling, juggling, aerial vaulting and other features that startle and thrill are fascinatingly interwoven into the swiftly moving Sells-Floto program.

Rosa Rosaland gives the thrilling sensation of the great show this year. From the back of one madly galloping steed she vaults through the air, turning completely over as she twists through the atmosphere, and alights on the back of the second horse. The two feature attractions are Jess Willard and Frank Gotch. The "heavy-weight champion" will first appear in the old role of cowboy and later will illustrate, in ring costume, how he won the championship and how he defended it at Madison Square Garden.

Frank Gotch, the Hercules of the wrestling world, is the man who has defeated the universe and won for himself the title "Wrestling Champion of the World."

Circus day will begin with the dazzling street parade for which Sells-

A. AND M. FOOTBALL.

Two Games Next Week, One at College and One at Dallas.

W. L. Driver, athletic director of the A. and M. College, was in the city today and while here paid the Eagle office a pleasant call. Mr. Driver stated the freshman football team of the college would journey to Huntsville and play the Sam Houston Normal team of that city on Saturday.

The A. and M. regulars will play their next game with the Southern Methodist University team of Dallas at the college on next Monday, October 23rd. On Saturday of next week they play the Haskell Indians at Dallas.
